and it read as follows:
In have given the communication from Dr. Parkhurs' and its charge of alleged open immorality in the Eleventh Precinet, and of intimidated criminality on the part of Capt. Devery in permitting such places to exist, the closest possible airention and investigation. I find that these charges are without foundation.
I will turther state that the report made by Capt. Devery last August on a similar communication was true: also that the report of that oc-

In conclusion, it is admitted by the signers of the ommunication that it is a personal attack upon Capt. Devery and not signist disorderly houses, and the false accusations therein contained would never have been made had not "hip. Devery caused the arrest and conviction of the Superintendent of the Society for blackmail.

The flat-footed denial ora the part of Inspector Williams made some of the Grand Jurors doubt the truthfulness of Rev. Dr. Parkhurst's charges, and also as to whether Inspector Williams was enally culpable with Capts. Devery and Slevin. District-Attorney Nicoli had already explained the law as to inspector Williams of district, and the Grand Jurors to formulate a series of questions relative to the duties and the culpability of inspector Williams. These questions were written out, and at 12.20 o'clock the Grand Jurors appeared before Justice Barrett. District-Attorney Nicoli accompanied them. So did Lawyer Frank Mass, who represented Dr. Parkhurst.

accompanied them. So did Lawyer Frank Mons, who represented Dr. Parkhurst. The jurors filed into the Court of Oyer and Terminer and Justice Barrett was there awaiting them.

The questions were handed to Justice Barrett. He took the papers, sent for several law books and studied the matter for fully fifteen minutes. At the expiration of that time he arose and said:

"Gentlemen, you have asked me for information on these questions of law." He then proceeded to read the squestions and answer them.

The first was, "When complaints are made by citizens concerning disorderly houses in an inspection district and are referred to the Inspector of that district, what duty does the law enjoin upon that inspector, or what will amount to a neglect of duty on his part?"

In answer to this question Justice Barrett said:

"The duty devolves upon the Inspector."

In answer to this question Justice Barrett said:

"The duty devoives upon the Inspector to be zealous, energetic and faithful in his endeavor to ascertain the tritin and suppress disorderly houses to the best of his ability. The same duty devoives upon the Inspector as the Captain. It is true that the Captain is closer to the duty, but both are responsible.

"It may be, according to the facts, that the captain alone is responsible, and the Inspector is not. While the area is greater the duty is the same.

the captain alone is responsible, and the Inspetor is not. While the area is greater the duty is the same.

"When notice of disorderly houses in a particular locality is given to the captain, it is his duty to find out if these specific disorderly houses do exist. It must be a real earnest effort to disover the truth of the notice so given. It must be the duty to enforce the law.

"If he shirks the duty because he does not approve of its source, he is then also responsible. If the Captain did not do all faithful polic servits you should not hesitate, nothwithstanding his previous good record, to bring in a prima facia case against him.

"Is this a case where disorderly houses existed in a general area or are these specific haree-

Examiner's Statement.

The statement made yesterday by Na ional Bank Examiner Kimball concerning the condition of National banks in this city put to rest some of the rumors that have been current in financial cirthat have been current in manufacturers cles regarding the condition of certain banks of the city.

It is generally believed that the Clear-ling-House and some of the larger and more powerful banks would not be sorely grieved were some of the small though perfectly solvent banks to go under. Nevertheless every small bank that has been in temporary difficulties has never failed to secure the all-powerful assistance of the larger banks.

Mr. Dunn thinks that the cold snap will probably last four or five days, and that the ice on all the lakes ought to be in shape for good skating. There was quite a heavy fog during the early hours of the morning, and nearly all the ferry-boats on the East and North Rivers were run five and ten minutes behind time. No accidents caused by the fog were reported. The weather is cloudy and rainy in the lake regions and Central and Southwestern States. It is generally warm in the Atlantic States, especially in the South Atlantic States, where the thermometer has risen anywhere from ten to twenty degrees.

In the lake regions it has fallen from 10 to 20 degrees in all districts.

Mr. Dunn's official forecast is: "Cloudy to-day, with ocasional showers, with colder and fair weather to-morrow. Southwesterly changing to northwesterly winds are blowing through this city at about five miles an hour."
